IF ALL LIGHTS WENT OUT
ONE DULL LITTLE BOY
SO HE GOES TO MIAMI
SCIENCE GOES ON

Gov. Larson of New Jersey, Edison's state, supports enthusiastically the suggestion made by W. R. Hearst, Jr., to President Hoover that on the night following Edison's funeral, all electric lights be extinguished for one minute to remind the country of its debt to Edison.

The dullest would be impressed, and made to realize the value of Edison's work, if suddenly, instantaneously, electric light in every city could be changed to utter darkness. Millions, by the way, would probably get in that moment a view of the sky, and the stars, at night, for the first time in a long while.

Edison, a little boy of 10, already was working at new ideas, "trying to invent things." His teachers complained that he was "absent minded." Did not pay attention, called him "dull."

Many other little boys suffer from so called "absent mindedness" which in reality is proof of a mind trying to work on its own problems in spite of constant interruption and extractions.

Fathers and mothers and teachers especially should remember it.

Mr. Alphonse Capone, bootleg-prohibition "big shot" is convicted and Judge Wilkerson will probably sentence him to Leavenworth penitentiary for several years. But sentencing him does not mean sending him. Legal technicalities and delays will postpone the "sending" several years.

Meanwhile, Mr. Capone, whose specialty is not cowardice, orders several suits of clothing "tropical weight" for his approaching journey to Miami's sunshine.

How different from the game of racketeering. You read about the "tropical weight" suits, and then about certain bootlegger and racketeer, who had refused to take the hint of a bootleg organization and retire from the beer trade.

He was sentenced not to Leavenworth but to death.

Two men called on him, one grasped his hand firmly, saying "Hello Max," while the other pressed a gun against Max's head and fired five bullets.

After he dropped, to make sure, they fired more bullets, then left.

Racketeering does not recognize any appeal. The law may have to come to that.

Men come and go, stocks rise and fall, governments dwindle and pass, science goes on.

Bell telephone scientific laboratories have developed a new air gauge to interest you. You know that atmosphere presses on us, living at the bottom of the air, as the water presses on fish living at the bottom of the ocean. No living man could carry half the weight that his body carries, without knowing it, in atmospheric pressure.

Messrs. Jaycox and Weinhardt engineers of Bell telephone laboratories, have invented an air gauge that will measure air pressure to within one-trillionth that divides the actual pressure by 1,000,000,000,000. The pressure on your body would be reduced to one trillionth of normal, if you could go to the top of our atmosphere, and you would instantly explode. That is one ordeal to be met on our first journey to the moon, or Mars.

THE CAPONE CASE

—Al Capone, symbol of the nation's crime problem, will continue to fight imprisonment as long as his strength lasts. The department of justice, trying to win its battle against him with tactics it realizes are faulty, has gained conviction on a charge of tax evasion, but Capone still has the benefits of appeal and delay provided by American criminal procedure. The nation will pay dearly for the satisfaction of proving to its most notorious gangster that he can't flout the law and get away with it. Whatever happens, however, Capone will know that he successfully flouted the law for years, made his thousands of dollars and lived his life about as he pleased. He will know that the same people who are clamoring for their government to imprison him are responsible for conditions that enabled him to flourish. He will know that he gained such power that the government, to trap him, had to resort to the subterfuge of charging him with offenses that differ from offenses committed by many so-called law-abiding citizens only in degree. Al Capone has discovered America's adulteration for wealth and made the most of it. He was no outlaw of old who had to shoot his way out of the crowd to escape a quick noose; he worked safely in the crowd, did business with it and was in greater danger from his own companions than those who were nominally his social enemies. The modern gangster is as much the product as the enemy of society.

According to the lunar transits operative on this day a very active and progressive state of affairs is presaged. This spirited condition will be felt in business, in all pertaining to writings, publications and promotion as well as in employing advancement, favors and preferment from those in places of authority. There may be slight agitation of obstructions, with some menace of fraud, duplicity or secret undermining, but generally signs are auspicious.

It's Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of lively activity, with affairs stirring in employment, in those businesses having to do with writings, publicity and promotion. Much is to be gained through fortuitous correspondence. Preference, favors and advancement are presaged, but be on guard against treachery from an unexpected quarter. There may be slight exchanges or disappointments. What Others Say

AN AMERICAN FIVE-YEAR PLAN

President Hoover will suspend the navy building schedule for this year. One reason is economy. The other is that Mr. Hoover is not interested in the navy. He is interested in pacifist conferences, in pacifism because, very likely he had a Quaker upbringing; in international conferences because he was accustomed to working in the international field before he became President.

For these reasons economy which might deflate the federal government to its proper shape and size if the economy worked on the fatty protuberances of its anatomy, will take its heaviest and probably its only considerable toll of one of the services truly federal. If the federal government will not provide for the navy the nations will not have a fleet.

The states can do without the department of agriculture, the department of labor, the department of commerce, the prohibition bureau of the department of justice and half a hundred other bureaus in other departments in which is depicted the fattening of federal government. The extraneous functions of this government apparently are safe from pruning or from what they really deserve, destruction. Retrenchment is to fall first upon national defense which was one of the few essential reasons for forming the federal union. The common security which brought the states together is the first thing to go down when their common government finds its budget unbalanced by payments on accounts it never should have opened and by the conduct of business it never should have undertaken.

Hysterical Americans demand a plan which will prove that the United States is not less intelligent than the Russian soviets. Here's a "Five-Year-Plan" for America: Begin the obliteration of Washington departments and bureaus. It will take at least five years to exterminate the worthless federal government functions of interference and intervention, but by beginning now the bureaucrats can be eased back into private life without injustice. They can be chipped off the public payrolls gradually and pensioned or sent back home. The useless departments can be closed room by room until nothing remains but for the last secretary and the last bureau chief to take his hat and go on about his private business if he has any.

Then the United States will be a trim young figure of a government attending to duties which are strictly federal, with ample funds for all its proper obligations. Now it is a sprawling behemoth with a diminishing brain pan, shedding its armor plate, like a prehistoric fool, because it is too lazy to carry it and too shortsighted to see the need of it. —Chicago Tribune.

The navy department is faced with an administrative order to decrease its budget. Construction of the second airship at Lakehurst, N. J. After considerable delay in starting the series of flights to prove her airworthiness, everything has gone off according to schedule. The naval inspection board has recommended acceptance.

Ohio has taken a proprietary interest in the Akron. Ohio enterprise obtained the contract to build her. Hundreds of Ohio men have spent months laboring on the fabrication of her huge skeleton. Ohio people were the first to see her in the air. When she leaves the state, to come back only infrequently for visits, a vacancy of interest will be the result. Perhaps construction of a second ship, according to navy department plans will compensate for the loss.

It is easy to understand one difficulty in the way of armament reduction, in considering Ohio's interest in the Akron and her projected componsonship. As a theory, armament reduction is popular.

When it comes as close home, however, as it would if it were to be found impossible to build the second airship in the dock at Akron airport, the theory begins to lose support. The same thing takes place around shipbuilding yards, no doubt.

Do Not Neglect Infections

A few days ago a World War veteran came out to my farm to talk about his compensation. It is such an interesting case I want to tell you something about it. Perhaps there may be found in it some lessons of value to a good many persons.

This fine man was wounded in the summer of 1918. The injury was not particularly serious in itself, but unfortunately the wound became badly infected, for it to heal.

It took six weeks for the soldier to go back to his duties and after the armistice was sent to the Rhine. On the way, after a forced march, he fell by the wayside, paralyzed from his waist to his feet.

Fully recovering, he finished his service and returned to private life. Last year, after hard work chopping ice from a roof in a northern climate, he was stricken with a severe headache. In an hour's time he was found to be paralyzed on his left side, face, arm and leg. The doctors said he had a thrombosis of the brain.

The question involved is this. Is there any relationship between the three incidents—the wound with infection, the paralysis in 1918, and the latest difficulty, the paralyzed side?

Personally, I think there is a very definite relationship. This is the way I picture the case.

In July, 1918, when the infection occurred, there were turned into the blood stream numerous germs, "bacteria" as they are called. Where did they go? Many went to the heart and some of them anchored there, so to speak.

As a result of this attack upon the lining of the heart, there was set up what the doctors call "endocarditis". This big name means nothing more than inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart and of the tissues covering the valves of the heart. But this is bad enough, I assure you.

When this trouble exists, tiny growths, "vegetations" they are called, are deposited or developed on the surface of the heart valves. So long as they stay there, the victim need not worry. But the sad thing is that they are liable to become detached. Then what happens?

How the Heart Is Affected

They float along in the current of the blood until that part of the stream reaches a very narrow blood vessel somewhere in the body. It is too small to permit the passage of the embolus, the clot, the tiny vegetation—whatever you choose to call it—then it sticks in the blood vessel, stopping it up and preventing the flow of blood to the tissues beyond. In consequence we have a "thrombosis", an obstruction of the blood vessel.

Whether this accident will prove serious, depends on the part of the body where the thrombosis occurs. If it is in the brain or spinal cord it may be very serious. It all depends on how quickly the substance is absorbed, or how speedily it crowds through the vessel and floats off to some less important place.

bers' gambling game, which is Harlan's besetting sin, has had a big drop in suckers.

Devotion of the late Eddie Dunn to his employer George M. Cohan was symbolized by his will. He left his estate of $5,000 entirely to Cohan's beautiful daughter Helen. Dunn had been Cohan's manager and personal representative since the actor's flag waving vaudeville days. His devotion to Cohan took on something of idolatry.

Dunn was for years featured in Reinhold Wolf's sparkling Morning Telegraph column as the parenthesized Eddie (Waistcoat) Dunn, a tribute to his extraordinary dazzling collection of fancy vests. No waist was too flamboyant. He had them in zebra stripes, polka dot, blood red and apple green. It may have been an exaggeration but the Rialto reported more than 300 in the mighty array.

Cohan is not only loyal to old associations out to old scenes. In the summer he still tilts in an old chair in rear of his Broadway theatre. He had a gaudy office but it was only a pretense. His real office was in this area. In a like manner Cohan has retained an apartment at a midtown hotel by the year. When he is rehearsing or directing a play he lives there.

Most of us think of Cohan as the jumping jack comedian—a miracle of sprightliness with a nasal twang. And even today it is rather shocking to see instead a sedate gentleman with graying hair—as white almost as that of his beloved father Jerry.

Incidentally, a serial writer showed a letter the other day just received from an enthusiastic magazine editor. It read: "I have scanned but thirty-four pages of your latest and all ready have a racing pulse and feverish tongue. It rings bells and in two places fires off cannon."

My only fiction effort was a mystery yarn about twenty years ago. It came back with a printed rejection slip but inadvertently an inter-office critique was also returned, reading: "The mystery in this is how it came to be written."

One cannot afford to neglect even the slightest of infections. A sensitive heart is in danger. It pays too, to have the heart examined after having an infectious disease, like typhoid, pneumonia, scarlet fever, blood poisoning and even tonsitis.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.

Proposing to amend the constitution of Ohio by adding a section to be designated as section 26 of Article VIII of said constitution for the purpose of authorizing the contracting of debts of the state in an aggregate amount not exceeding seven and one-half hundred thousand dollars to supply funds for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof, and the purchase thereof, and of the welfare institutions of the state; and to that end authorizing the issuance of bonds and directing the levy of taxes sufficient to pay the interest and principal thereof.

Amount of Bonds Authorized to be Issued $7,500,000.

Maximum Rate of Interest 5% Per Annum.

These Bonds $2 to be Issued between November 4, 1931, and July 1, 1932.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of all the members elected to each house of the General Assembly, that:

Section 1. There shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Ohio, for their approval or rejection, at the general election on Tuesday, November 4, 1931, a proposal to amend the constitution of Ohio by adding a section to be designated as section 26 of article VIII of said constitution, reading as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.

"The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" created in this article shall, forthwith upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell at public sale, from time to time, under such regulations as may be ordered, promulgated for not less than par and accrued interest, not to exceed the sum of seven million five hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the State of Ohio, bearing interest not to exceed five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and maturing in ten equal annual installments commencing not later than the first day of January, 1932, and not earlier than eighteen months after the issuance of any such bonds. No such bonds shall be issued to mature later than the first day of January, 1932. The amount of such bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the State of Ohio to the credit of a fund therein to be known as "The State Welfare Relief and Sinking Fund." Such fund may be expended without appropriation by the General Assembly, but subject to approval and allotment by the emergency board, for the purpose of supplying funds as determined by the directors of the welfare agencies of the state, for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof, and the purchase of land for the use of existing or new welfare and benefit institutions of the state and for no other purpose. For the payment of the interest on such bonds and the installments of principal thereof, as the same may be due, the amounts of appropriations of administration hereby, any fund or funds in the state treasury, available by law for the payment of the purpose for which said bonds shall have been issued, or for which said appropriation of the General Assembly be paid out upon the order of the said "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" to the extent of the amount of such fund. The Assembly may make appropriations for such purposes out of any such funds which appropriations so made shall, first exhausted, before any unappropriated amount be drawn.

The full faith and credit of the State of Ohio is hereby pledged for the payment of said bonds. Upon the retirement of all said bonds and the payment of all the interest thereon said "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" shall render a final report to the General Assembly. The provisions of this section shall not be executive.

Section 2. The Secretary of state, in the manner provided by law, shall prescribe the form of the ballots to be used at the election mentioned in section 1 of this article, and the ballot of the proposal therein provided for; but said ballots shall distinctly state the amount of bonds authorized to be issued, the period within which they may be issued, the maximum rate of interest thereof and the purpose for which the same are to be issued.

Adopted June 25, 1931.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

STATE OF OHIO.

Office of the Secretary of State.

1. CLARENCE I. BROWN, Secretary of State, of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is copied from a carefully compared copy of the Joint Resolution adopted by the 89th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on June 25, 1931, and now on file in my office and my official copy is correct. I further certify that the same is true and correct. Said Joint Resolution was filed in the office of the Secretary of State on July 1st, 1931, and proposed to amend the constitution of the State of Ohio by adding a section to be designated as section 26 of Article VIII, relating to the issuance of bonds and levy of taxes for the public welfare institutions of the State of Ohio.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 12th day of September, A. D. 1931.

COURT NEWS

LISBON, Oct. 19.—There has been a settlement out of court in the case of William J. and Fred Winland against the William Erlanger Co., and the case marked from the court docket. The issues were tried to a jury recently, and a motion for a new trial was sustained. This case had been assigned for trial before Judge Benner Jones of Jackson, O., in No. 2 court for Tuesday.

R. T. Holzbach and Blanche Mohr have been made party defendants in the case of Joanne E. Evans against Lillian Ewing and others, with leave granted to file an answer and cross petition at once.

There has been a dismissal at the costs of the plaintiff without further record in the case of Priscilla P. Walker against Harry W. Hutton, an attachment action.

The damage case of Thomas E.

McGowan against Frank Shultz of Columbus was not finished at noon Saturday as had been contemplated, and although all evidence has been introduced, argument to the jury was not started until 1 o'clock this afternoon. This case went to trial before Judge W. F. Lones last Friday.

FOR SATIN OR VELVET PATTERN 2223

By ANNE ADAMS

Extremely youthful, but sophisticated too, is this frock with graciously flared jabot and dainty lace vestee. The new puff sleeves with snug wrist portion and the low-placed skirt flare are details of interest this season. Cream lace is lovely against black or the new shades of brown, blue green and dull red. For fabric choice, satin, velvet, canton crepe or sheer woolen will be suitable.

Pattern 2223 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 7/8 yards of 39 inch fabric. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send for the fall and winter catalog. It features the newest in afternoon, sports and house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies' clothes. Also delightful gift suggestions in accessory and transfer patterns.

In Louisiana Political Mess

"FIVE STAR FINAL," screen version of the sensational newspaper play of the same name will open an engagement at the State theater today with Edward G. Robinson as the Grand.

"Five Star Final" deals with the ways in which the unscrupulous staff of the "Gazette" ruins the reputation of the Townsends. Michael Townsend had married Nancy Voorhees 20 years before, fully aware of the fact that in self defense she had killed a man. Their daughter Jenny has never known the dark secret and is about to marry Phillip Weeks, son of a well-to-do family.

The news breaks in the "Gazette" just before the wedding. The mother commits suicide—and a chain of events follows—so tragic that even "BAD SISTER," famous Booth Tarkington story, which has been produced as a talking picture special, begins its engagement today at the Grand.

It has a notable cast, headed by Conrad Nagel, Sidney Fox and Bette Davis.

The two sisters of the story are played by Miss Fox and Miss Davis, both of whom are making their screen debuts in this production. The title of the picture is itself "Bad Sister," and audiences will have a chance to judge for themselves which one the title applies to.

Miss Summerville and Zasu Pitts have prominent parts in the cast.

Leetonia Gridders Oppose East Palestine Hi Team Saturday

THE DAY IN SPORTS BIG GAMES SATURDAY

Four players today were tied for first scoring honors among Ohio college football teams, with 30 points each. The leading scorers were Martin Schnur, University of Dayton fullback; Clark Gabriel, Ohio university quarterback; Leo Grimes, Mount Union fullback, and Edgar Westfall, Ohio Wesleyan halfback.

Schnur, Grimes and Westfall have scored five touchdowns apiece, but Gabriel has four touchdowns to his credit and six points after touchdown.

Wallace Roudebush, Miami quarterback, was next high scorer, with 26 points.

Dave Samuelson, of Case; Colin Lanning, of Wittenberg; Wing, of Baldwin-Wallace, and Terry of Wilberforce, each had 24 points.

The leading scorers and the number of points made by each follow:

Player and School	TD	EP	Total
Schnur, Dayton	5	0	30
Gabriel, Ohio U	4	6	30
Grimes, Mt. Union	5	0	30
Westfall, Ohio Wesl.	5	0	30
Roudebush, Miami	4	2	26
Samuelson, Case	4	0	24
Lanning, Wittenberg	4	0	24
Terry, Wilberforce	4	0	24
Wing, B'dn-Wallace	4	0	24
Pennington, Xavier	3	3	21
Beckwith, Xavier	3	3	21
Nelson, Wooster	3	2	20
Culotta, John Carroll	3	1	19

A real crop of feature football games is listed for play by leading colleges Saturday. There was a distinct let-down one week ago but the big fellows have a splendid assortment of top attractions this weekend.

Invasion by Texas of Cambridge where the dashing southwesterners will meet up with staid Harvard (Harvard isn't so staid on the football field, however) offers an attraction worth anyone's time. Because of the fact that a large number of Texans will be in Cambridge, because many of these Lone Star State football enthusiasts will be wearing enormous hats, and because men of Harvard have offered such a thoroughly cordial welcome to the visitors, the games shapes up as about the best in the East.

Other members of the East's "Big Three" have traditionally important games, with Yale meeting Army and Princeton taking on Navy.

A second intersection of some interest is the meeting of Drake from the mid-west with Fordham in New York, a third involves Wisconsin and Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, and a fourth is the meeting of Purdue and Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.

Meantime two Eastern teams, Pitt and Georgetown go west to meet Notre Dame and Michigan State.

The Big Ten season will be in full blast with Michigan playing Illinois, Northwestern playing Ohio State, Minnesota playing Iowa, and Indiana playing Chicago.

The Western coast offers enough thrills for the entire nation. Southern California's eleven is listed to play California. Other games include Stanford-Washington, Washington State-Montana, Oregon-North Dakota, St. Marys-Gonzaga.

Down South there's another set of thrillers: Tulane-Georgia Tech, Poly-Florida, Kentucky-V. P. I.

The Southwest, although deserted by Texas, finds a stand-out group of games on home sites: Texas Aggies-Baylor, Rice-Arizona, Southern Methodist-Centenary.

QUAKERS IDLE; LIVERPOOL WILL OPPOSE MIDLAND

Attractive Schedule of Grid Contests Faces County Fandom

COLUMBIANA SQUAD MEETS SALINEVILLE

Smaller Schools Vie For Class B Laurels; Night Games Booked

Leetonia High gridders, enthused by Lisbon High's 7-0 victory over East Palestine last week, will seek their first victory in years over a Brown and White football team when they clash with Perry Van Hining's warriors on the East Palestine team's home gridiron. The contest ranks as one of the coming weekend's leading struggles in Columbian county competition.

Salem Team Idle

Salem High is not scheduled this week although efforts are being made by Faculty Manager Harold M. Williams to book a game. Meanwhile Coaches Floyd Stone and Frank Lewis are continuing workouts for the impending classic with the powerful Wellsville squad, scheduled here Friday night, Oct. 30.

Leetonia High was the victim of an upset last Saturday, being held to a 6-6 draw by a plucky Salineville aggregation. The Blue and White, however, is confidently pointing towards the tilt with Palestine as a possible victory.

Two Games Friday

Two county teams, East Liverpool and Wellsville, swing into action in Friday night games. The Potters are hosts to the undefeated Midland, Pa., aggregation while the Bengals trek to Toronto. Where the Wellsville team is expected to annex an easy victory the Liverpool lads are looked on as easy victims for Midland, a team which has as yet not been scored on.

Columbian, easy victor last week by a 19-0 score, over Canfield, battles the tough Salineville combine at Salineville Saturday afternoon. The teams appear evenly matched and a hard fought battle is anticipated.

Lisbon staged the surprise of the season in outplaying Palestine to win, 7-0, and Saturday faces another stiff test in its clash with Sebring. The county seat outfit is a slight favorite.

Battle For Title

While Salem High and Wellsville are staging two-cornered battle for Class A county laurels, the race for the Class B trophy appears to be ruled, at least for the present, by the Red and White of Columbian. The team has yet to suffer defeat from a county team, having battled Lisbon to one scoreless tie and defeated them in a second encounter.

Other attractive interclassifications serve to add impetus to interest in high school football in the district. South and Rayen of Youngstown collide in the first of a series of battles for the Youngstown city championship while Warren and Martins Ferry meet at Warren. Campbell Memorial is held to be propulsive Struthers.

Niles' strong team is expected to add another victory, meeting Minerva Saturday, while Massillon should roll up a one-sided score against Barberton. Youngstown Chaney and Woodward of Toledo clash in a battle that involves two not-so-strong teams, Winton and Chester, W. Va., clash at Chester.

Cinci Tackles Ohio U

CINCINNATI—Leon Saler, huge Californian trying for a regular berth at fullback for the University of Cincinnati Bearcats is to be given a greater chance to show his ground gaining ability as the Cats swing into their training sessions for Ohio university, the visitor for the homecoming game here Saturday.

Northern Faces Otterbein

ADA—The Polar Bears of Ohio Northern will be under extra pressure in their practice periods for the Saturday game with Otterbein, a contest expected to be one of their toughest engagements in the Ohio Conference.

Navy to Hunt "Tiger" at Princeton

When the Navy gridsters meet up with their old Princetonian rivals at Princeton, on October 24, they will march out on the field with the amiable intention of repeating the awful shellacking they handed out the Tigers last year. The score on that occasion was 31-0, and the most optimistic of the sailors look to a similar count this year. In Captain Tuttle, the Navy has a skipper of outstanding ability and with a ball-carrier like Captain Yeckley.

bell and a kicker of Kane's sterling worth at h. command, the future admirals from Annapolis see no reason why the Tiger's tail should not be twisted and twisted hard. However, the Princetonians have their own views on the matter, and their Captain Yeckley has more than a nodding acquaintance with grid strategy. One of the big shots in the Tiger locker is James, whose running has made him a force with which to be reckoned.

Willaman Gets Set For Northwestern

COLUMBUS, Oct. 20.—Satisfied he has found the organization he has been seeking since the first of the year, Coach Sam Willaman of the Ohio State university football squad, will make no changes in the personnel of his team this week as he prepares to meet Northwestern Saturday.

Most of the week will be spent in perfecting new and intricate plays with which the Ohio coach hopes to combat the Purple's speed, plumping and aerial offensive.

Much time will be spent at each practice session in instructing the backfield men how to hold onto the ball after they have been tackled.

Many of the players were badly bruised but unless additional injuries crop up this week, Ohio will be able to present its strongest lineup against the Wildcats.

Soph Stars Hurt

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 20.—Two of Northwestern's stellar sophomore backs, George Potter and Ollie Olson, are nursing injuries but both are expected to be ready for the Ohio State game Saturday. Potter has a "charley horse" and Olson has an infected leg.

Strengthen Offensive

TIFFIN — Heidelberg is on a search for offensive strength as it prepares for its battle with Muskingum next Saturday.

Loughran Wins Easy Verdict Over Risko

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight, left jabbed his way to his third victory over Johnny Risko, Cleveland, last night in the ten round feature of the arena card. It was Tommy's eleventh straight win and placed him in line for a batle with Jack Sharkey for the right to meet Herr Max Schmeling.

Loughran peppered a slightly injured left into Risko's jaw, time and again snapping his head back.

Aviation the High Road to Glory But Fame Pays Small Dividends

Few of the Great Air Feats That Thrilled the World Have Brought Worthwhile Financial Returns to Famous Fliers. Veterans Ask Does Glory Pay?

With the conquest of the Pacific by Herndon and Pangborn, few more fields are left to conquer by airmen who travel the sky route to fame. And they bemoan the fact. But the old-timers at the game look at the struggle for glory from a different angle. They say that fame won in the clouds does not pay and they point out cases to prove it. It is true that Lindbergh's dash to Paris netted him an amount estimated at from $300,000 to $1,000,000, although he refused to commercialize the feat. And Admiral Byrd, who flew over two Poles, cashed in on his exploits, through his lectures and writings. But Clarence Chamberlin, who flew from New York to Germany, did not profit much financially, nor did Holger Hornis, who flew to Copenhagen. Holger is now barnstorming for a living. Although the Post and Gatty flight around the world in eight and one-half days was acclaimed as the greatest feat in the history of aviation, the daring fliers did not receive any considerable dividends from the fame it brought them. The same is true of the Pangborn-Herndon flight across the Pacific. Although they won a prize of $25,000, offered by a Japanese newspaper for the flight, they lost two more prizes of the same amount each because they did not fulfill the required terms. The conquerors of the Pacific are actually in the red for $20,000, it is reported.

Today's Pattern

CUT IN SIZES 36 TO 50

PATTERN 2193

An attractive morning dress smartly made of plain flat and is a particularly good model to adjust to figures with large bust or large hips. The original was fashioned of percale printed in three shades of blue on a white ground. The trimming was dark blue percale. It was stunning. Equally serviceable fabrics are gingham, cotton broadcloth, madras and rayon.

Pattern 2193 may be ordered only in sizes 36-38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 3 3/8 yards of 36 inch fabric, 1 yard contrasting. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send for the Fall and Winter Catalog. It features the newest in afternoon sports and house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies clothes. Also delightful gift suggestions in accessory and transfer patterns.

Fabrics For Walls

Having gone in heavily for modernistic decorations, Vera now finds that her plain buff-tinted walls look chilly. And the fine prints and water-colors placed carefully break up the wall, but do not warm it. For the severe lines of modernistic furniture require softening contrast—and the extreme examples are at their best only when tempered by fabric covered walls, all or in part, and softly-carpeted floors.

Large tapestries come to the rescue of the perplexed home decorator when confronted with this particular problem. And there's a wealth of variety to choose from. Those with Gobelin taste and silk-mat purses can find a happy medium, because striking design may be just as adequate as costly fabrics.

Apart from the beautiful, though expensive, tapestries which are coming in, and which can this season be purchased at prices far lower than ever before, there are other varieties. There are the silk panels, for one thing—beautiful paintings and striking patterns painted by a special process on silk. Even the block prints on silk or heavy silk and wool fabrics provide a warm splash of color that changes the wall space with small effort.

Tapa cloth from the South Seas is another favored wall hanging this year. These brown mats made of specially prepared cocoanut fibre come only in native designs—conventionalized patterns that have the charming irregularity of hand-made things. These used to be rarities—brought home as a special treasure by the traveler but one can pick up these large hangings in many of the high-grade decorating shops. And their vague dun color and patterns identified with no special period makes these unsophisticated pieces blend harmoniously with any kind of furnishing—modernistic period or in the comfortably mixed room where the decoration has just grown with the family life.

Chinese Silk Panels

Colonial rooms look well with a background of the Chinese silk panels and this offers perhaps the most convenient solution of the tapestry problem for they come in every spoonful of the mushroom mixture on a slice of toast, garnish with asparagus tips, and color effects are desired a few strips of pimento.

small ones need even less. And if the mushrooms are cooked without salt, in a little sweet butter in this rapid fashion they will preserve their delicious woodland aroma until served.

Fresh mushrooms at their best need no peeling. A good wash in cold water is sufficient. Separate caps from stem and only peel if the stem is large and the peel seems thick. If there are plenty of mushrooms they can be served as a complete dish, either as vegetable accompaniment for a meat dinner or as a whole luncheon in themselves. Melt butter in a large saucier, and mushrooms, cook over a moderate flame from five to eight minutes testing for tenderness. Then add a tablespoon of flour, one cup of thin cream or top milk, and stir until smooth. Season with a little salt and a dash of pepper just before removing from the fire.

Blended With Chicken

If mushrooms are a bit too expensive to be used in liberal quantities for a complete dish, they can be combined with other foods. Mushrooms blend admirably with many other dishes. Chicken and mushrooms is a popular dish, and mushrooms added to any meat sauce will pep up the dish pleasantly. Hamburg steak cooked with mushrooms is excellent, and stews of veal or lamb to which a cup of cooked mushrooms is added at the last minute become a complete one-piece meal.

Mushrooms can also be cooked with the miscellany of meats—sautéed with calves' liver, or chicken liver, sweetbreads, kidneys, tripe or boiled tongue.

Mushrooms blended with cooked clams, with shrimps, crabmeat or scallops, make a delightful hors d'œuvre. Here is a simple but good-looking dish for a ladies' luncheon.

Mushroom a la King
1 pound fresh mushrooms.
1 cup thick asparagus tips.
3 hard-boiled eggs.
3 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
2 cups top milk.
1 teaspoon salt.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the cleaned mushrooms and cook until tender. Add flour, stir in the milk, rubbing carefully until the milk is thick and smooth. Add sliced hard-boiled eggs and salt and cook a few moments longer. Serve individually, placing a few

Real relief from CONSTIPATION

Whenever digestive distress follows mealtime, you can suspect an acid condition.

Acidity affects the appetite. What food you do eat sours in the stomach. The tongue becomes coated. The breath is bad. Sick headaches become frequent. You are constipated.

These are danger signals which should never go unnoticed. Your system is fairly shouting its need of help; something to help remove the acid waste and restore alkaline balance. An anti-acid to offset the effect of too rich a diet, nervousness, excitement, etc.

Men and women who meet this need promptly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia do not suffer. They eat well and their food doesn't ferment in the stomach. Every trace of over-acidity soon disappears. All sour gas is dispelled. Stomach, liver and bowels have a better chance to function.

If there is the least hint of too much acid, just take a spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia today, and for several days. Feel this sweeten your stomach. Note how appetite improves. And elimination. You will wonder how anything so pleasant-tasting can be so promptly effective. 25c and 50c bottles at drug stores everywhere.

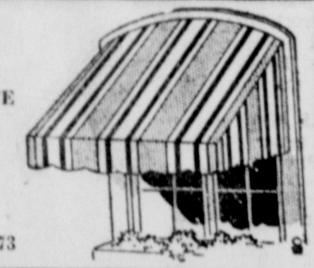

Phillips' Dental Magnesia Toothpaste guards against acid-mouth; keeps gums firm and teeth pearly white.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

BY WILLIAM MCLEOD RAINIE

SYNOPSIS

Lee Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined. She leases a Mexican rancho and moves her starving herd there. She is barely settled when a revolution breaks out. Megares, bogey man of the border, is the leader. Rane Brennan, a former foreman of Lee's, is his right hand man. Brennan was discharged by Lee and swore revenge. Lee hires a new hand, who is recognized by Dunc Daggett, an old ranch helper, as Jack Hadley, a millionaire oil man of California, whose father owned a mine near Lee's ranch and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley is searching for the murderer of his father. Hadley and Lee call on Megares, who is, apparently, friendly to them. Megares calls at the ranch and is infatuated with Lee's guest, Mrs. Doris Silver. He comes to live at the ranch to protect them, he says, though they are really his prisoners. Doris is rescued by airplane by her husband. Lee refuses to leave her ranchers—and Jack Hadley, whom she loves. Harold Silver promises to return with an armed plane for their rescue. Lee and Jack are sentenced by a drum court martial to be shot at sunset. Brennan is shot by Megares when he tries to interfere in Lee's behalf. Megares grants Lee and Jack a final parting. Hadley outwits Megares and escapes with Lee.

INSTALMENT 30

THE TABLES TURNED.

Sounds of a commotion within the house could be heard. Men were rushing to and fro. Voices were lifted in excitement.

Hadley needed no explanation. Megares had been found.

"You will go with us Colonel," he said quickly. "If you try to escape I'll shoot you down. And if you betray us you'll go first. Move fast but don't run. But first I'll take your guns."

Pedro made no protest. He did exactly as he was told.

They reached the stable.

To Pedro he gave an order in one curt word. "Vamos!"

Over his shoulder Jack could see pursuers scattering in all directions. He and Lee ran into the stable. At sight of his revolver the horse wrangler took to his heels.

Jack slammed shut the door and in the darkness climbed up a flight of wooden stairs to a loft room. He bolted the door.

He went to the small window and looked out. He could hear a voice giving orders and could see soldiers moving forward. He dropped a bullet in front of them.

"I'll fire to kill next time," he shouted in Spanish.

The answer came from Megares in person. "For each one of my men you hit I'll shoot down a Lazy R vaquero. I'm going to get you, gringo dog, alive if possible."

Lee came close to him and put an arm around his waist.

Jack kissed her. He had no comfort to offer, except to remind her that he was to have been shot at sunset and yet was still alive.

A trim young officer came forward to meet Lee and Jack.

From the grove of liveoaks a voice called. Once more Megares was speaking.

"I've got some of your friends here, Mr. Hadley. We're to have a little neckite party. The first one is an old fool named Daggett. Perhaps he would like to say a few words."

Daggett said his few words, in a falsetto voice quavering with excitement. What he had to say was punctuated with blistering epithets applied to Megares.

"Don't let him bluff you, Jack, into giving up to him. Let him hang me, and be damned."

Jack's stomach turned sick. He could not let Dunc Daggett and the other Lazy R riders die on his account. He had to pay his own debts.

"I give up without a fight will you turn loose Daggett and the other Lazy R vaqueros?" he asked.

"Yes," Megares shouted back. "It's you I want."

"Is Col. Mancos there?"

"I'm here," some one answered.

"I surrender on one condition," Hadley called to him. "You and the other officers have got to swear that you'll protect Miss Reynolds from Megares just as though she were your own daughter."

To Jack's surprise Mancos did not hesitate an instant. "I'll protect her with my life. This thing has gone far enough. I don't make war on women and I don't take orders from that dog."

Megares gave a roar of rage, but Hadley went on with roll call of the officers who had sat on the court martial. The others were far less clearcut in their answers than Mancos, but they came through with promises of a sort.

"I'll surrender within five minutes," Hadley told them. "The other men are to be freed and Miss Reynolds is to be protected. That's understood?"

The officers assented.

"I won't have it, Jack. I won't have it," Lee cried, clinging to him in terror. "Don't you see it doesn't matter what happens to me if I lose you? I'll not let you go. I'll not."

He held her in his arms and spoke very gently. "It has to be, sweetheart. If I hold out and let them kill Dunc I couldn't look you in the face. You must see that."

Even in his preoccupation Jack had been vaguely aware of a faint droning in the sky. Now it came unmistakably clear: the roar of an aeroplane above their heads. Lee and Steve stopped a moment to listen.

"It's Harold coming back," the girl cried.

The night woke to sudden noises. The sound of approaching automobiles, the roar of guns, the shouts and curses of men blended into the inferno of battle. Megares and his men were flying into the shadows.

A skirmish had been fought and won. Men had been killed, others captured. But with the egocentric urge of all human beings, the one important fact to the losers in the loft room was that they had been saved. They were free to love and be loved. The menace that had hung so heavily over them had been driven off as smoke is by a gust of wind.

They clung to each other in an ecstasy of emotion.

him walked Dunc Daggett, talking to him and yet was still alive.

"I am Capt. Gonzales, a nephew of Gen. Luna," he said by way of introduction. "I regret that the villain Megares has escaped after causing you so much distress."

"Let me thank you for your timely arrival, Captain, on behalf both of myself and Miss Reynolds whom I take pleasure in presenting to you. My name is Hadley—Jack Hadley."

They shook hands.

"Though I am happy to have saved you, Mr. Hadley, I have failed in the most important part of my enterprise. I very much wanted to catch Megares and see him shot," the captain said. "My men are still after him, but in the dark night I don't think there is much chance of finding him."

Daggett chipped in. "That fellow Megares is sure enough one scalawag I'd like to see bumped off. Are you all right, Miss Lee?"

"I'm all right, Dunc," Lee told him. "I expect my hair has turned white but I can have it dyed." She turned to Gonzales. "I want to thank you too, Captain, for saving us. Mr. Hadley and I are engaged to be married, so you can guess how terribly unhappy and frightened I was."

The old foreman gave a whoop of delight. "Now you're sure enough shouting, you two. Dog my cats, if it ain't worth having a rope around my neck for a spell to hear that."

"I heard an airplane just as we got here," Gonzales said. "It landed somewhere near. I'm wondering if it is a rebel plane."

Hadley explained to the officer that they were rather expecting a plane from across the line to attempt a rescue and that probably this was the one. In a few sentences he sketched the story of their stay at the rancho and of the escape of Mrs. Silver and its consequences to those remaining.

The young Mexican summed up crisply. "The man's a murderous villain. For many years he has merited death. It would be a great pleasure for me to relieve the country of him."

They stopped talking, all of them to listen to the sound of guns. It came from a distance of perhaps half a mile.

"My men must have made contact with some of the escaping rebels," Gonzales guessed. "I think I'll push on to them with reserves."

Hadley and Daggett released the riders of the Lazy R.

Half an hour later Gonzales and his men returned. With them were Harold Silver and three other Americans. A prisoner also was brought by the party.

The plane had made a landing on the mesa by the light of the stars. It had been a precarious business, but by good luck there had not been a crash. But there had been plenty of excitement. Half a dozen of the rebels had attacked the party, evidently in the hope of taking off in the plane. Silver and his men had driven them back and captured the most persistent of the assailants.

Gonzales had the prisoner brought forward to the light. At sight of the man Lee gave a cry of surprise. He was Megares.

"You see I couldn't stay away from you senorita," he said with an ironical bow. "I had to come back, knowing how you must be longing for me."

Bound for the already overflowing coffers of France's gold hoard, these innocent and ordinary-looking boxes contain just twelve million dollars in the precious metal. Loaded aboard the S. S. Roosevelt at New York with difficulty and much perspiration off the brow, for gold is not light and airy, the fortune is destined for the vaults of the French Government in Paris. France now has more gold than any other nation in Europe or Asia.

DETROIT—Great rural communities of the future, with every modern facility, will replace the densely populated metropolitan sections of today. Wirt D. Rowland, Detroit designer of skyscrapers, told the American Civic Association in session here. "Homes of the future," he added, "will be planned from within to suit the human need rather than the human need fit itself willy-nilly into a boxlike structure."

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation: contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulatory help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:
